URSA GLASSWOOL efficiently avoids thermal transmission, helping to maintain heat just where it is needed and it dramatically reduces external noise. It also considerably limits the risk of fire while cutting down energy consumption in buildings.

URSA has glass wool products for almost every building application: roofs, ceilings, floors, outer or inner walls, new constructions or refurbishments. Glass wool panels and rolls can be worked quickly and easily thanks to their flexibility and may be handled without any additional industrial safety measures.
