COMPANY BACKGROUND / HISTORY

Gentner Verlag Stuttgart

70 years in the publishing business have gone into making Gentner Verlag Stuttgart what it is today. True to the tradition of an independent family concern, from modest roots the group has developed into an international player in world publishing. An integral element in the company's strategy is the provision of key information designed to give the customer a competitive advantage.

Subject matter is focused on the fields of buildings installations and services and medicine. Core products include technical periodicals, books, information materials, exhibition catalogues as well as a range of Internet offerings.

The move towards internationalization began with the opening of the door to the markets of Eastern Europe. Today, the group publishes over 60 technical magazine in 10 countries world-wide. Plans are afoot to establish further subsidiaries.
