S-LIFE® Solar. A passion for tubes. Regenerative Energy is in our focus. Our corrosion-resistant special Aluminium alloy tube, S-LIFE® Solar is helping to shape future technology. Developed by aluminium experts for tomorrow's world. Standard-Metallwerke is an innovative medium-sized company and the expert for precision drawn tubes of nonferrous metals like aluminium, copper and brass. Since 1919 our high quality products in all the different alloys have established a top class reputation in the global marketplace. Advanced technology development enables us to produce high quality management systems according to ISO TS 16949, DIN EN ISO 9001 and EN 9100 are a matter of course. We have executed the change from a classical tube drawing to an industrial engineering company and offer innovative, total solutions for our customer's development projects. Our corrosion resistant aluminium tubes enable our customers to change effortlessly from copper to aluminium. Our sales department is focused on our defined business units Automotive, HVAC&R, Industry, Solar and Aerospace, in order to meet the respective specific needs in these markets. We use our core competence in our customer's interests. We are pleased to take on the most sophisticated customer challenges because we demand as much from ourselves.
